Good Day Sir / Madam

RE: THE 2010 FIFA CUP LEGACY TRUST / IT 1787/2011

The abovementioned and all correspondence ; pursuant to your client's removal as a trustee; refers.

Please note that the Master has no opinion on the fairness or otherwise on his removal as trustee, and that it is a matter to be ventilated in the appropriate forum; which the Master under the circumstances; is not.

As the matter stands; your client has been removed as a trustee and has, as a result, no further legal standing in matters relating to the Trust.

We will in the normal course of our duties; request financial documents; which we; even in the event of the Master receiving same; will not be able to disclose to you for reasons stated above.

We now consider the matter closed in so far as your complaint is concerned.

Regards

Esmeralda M. Van Wyk

Dear all,

As mentioned in a previous e-mail to Joe, we, at FIFA, are reviewing the entire documentation submitted to the Trustees on 8 October. We understand, however, that the Trustees representing SAFA did not receive that information or at least not through the same e-mail.

While FIFA's feedback is still pending, we would like to express our surprise and concern with the decision to remove the three SAFA representatives from the Trust, including the Trust's Chairperson and longest-serving member.

We have involved our Legal team to assess this decision and provide us with legal guidance as of what the next steps should possibly be. Irrespective of that analysis, however, SAFA's decision is worrisome and sheds a very negative light onto the more than ten years of work and impact of the 2010 FIFA World Cup Legacy Trust.

Accordingly, FIFA's expectation is for SAFA to revert that decision and for the three members (and in particular the Chair) to continue their functions until the soon-to-come dissolution of the Trust.

FIFA and SAFA created and shaped the Legacy Trust a decade ago and worked hand in hand to deliver to its objectives. There should be no other way of closing the Trust's work than in a joint manner too. Any alternative to a joint closure would send a very negative message that would damage the reputation of the Trust, its members and its work.

Thank you very much for your attention and support in solving this situation as a matter of urgency.

Best regards,

Federico
